

It has been our Credit Unions's honor to work alongside and in support of everyone in the Park since 2001, and it's been a personal privilege for me to have been associated with the SS&TP Community Advisory Council guiding development activities.

Robert Chavez, Former President and CEO, SLFCU

COMPANY AND ORGANIZATION NEWS

SLFCU Names New President and CEO

Stephanie Sherrodd, a veteran of the credit union industry for more than 20 years, now leads the Sandia Laboratory Federal Credit Union (SLFCU) as president and CEO. Robert Chavez, former president and CEO, will be retiring effective June 2022 after spending 21 years with SLFCU and holding the CEO title since 2014. Chavez will continue to assist with the transition through June. We will miss him as a long-standing member of the SS&TP Community Advisory Council. SLFCU has 132,000 members with $3.5 billion in assets, 12 branches across New Mexico including one in the SS&TP and one in Livermore, California, and employs nearly 400 people.

NMA Ventures Rebrands to OneTen° Capital

One of New Mexico's leading venture capital organizations rebranded to better align with the new expanded focus of their second fund. NMA Ventures is now called OneTen° Capital. While the first fund, sourced from investments by the New Mexico Catalyst Fund as well as private investors, focused on early-stage technology startups based in New Mexico, their second fund will expand to encompass a broader region, including Arizona, Utah, and Colorado in addition to New Mexico. The OneTen° name is derived from the 110th meridian west line of longitude which runs down the Rocky Mountains.
